The choice of the harvest day was very careful according to the variety, the soil and the plot exposure. Manual harvesting for 20 kg boxes occurred on October 4th, 6th and 7th, 2016.

In the cellar, the grape blend, after destemming and slight crushing, fermented naturally in the old Talhas of 1200 l capacity. Daily and until the end of the fermentation, the cap was punch down several times a day. Wine and skins remained in maceration until 12 December (long after Saint Martin's day - 11 November) and was naturally filtered thru its "mother" (the seeds and skins laying on the bottom) The wine stabilized for several months in closed vats, without having any aging in barrel, thus fulfilling the tradition and the necessary regulations for its certification as TALHA WINE.
